Visually stunning from tee to green, Gil Hanse created No. 4 in the timeless tradition of golf in the North Carolina Sandhills. Vast expanses of sand are exposed along the fringes of the course as well as in cross-fairway bunkers. Native wiregrass melds with the area’s rolling topography, making No. 4 one of the most breathtaking golf courses at Pinehurst. And dramatic vistas are everywhere one turns, helping to explain why this impressive course was chosen to host the 2019 U.S. Amateur just one year after it reopened in 2018 following Hanse’s redesign.

Notes

Donald Ross’s masterpiece, No. 2 at Pinehurst has served as the site of more single golf championships than any other course in America. It has also hosted back-to-back U.S. Open and U.S. Women’s Open Championships in 2014, and recently the 2024 U.S. Open. And as the U.S. Open’s anchor site, the future looks bright indeed. The championship returns in 2029, 2035, 2041 and 2047.

"The Most Fun 10 Acres In All Of Golf." That's what Golf Channel calls The Cradle, Gil Hanse's nine-hole test of a golfer's short-game skills. Twisting fairways, deep bunkers and undulating greens make up for the length The Cradle lacks, while still keeping the experience a worthwhile challenge. Fail your first test? Replay rounds are free, as are kids 17 and under playing with an adult, so give it another go and enjoy simple fun of the game Donald Ross once said, "should be a pleasure, not a penance."

No. 10 is Pinehurst’s first new course in nearly three decades, but in truth it’s been centuries, even millennia, in the making. The landscape underlying Tom Doak’s new design features native wiregrass, sweeping landscape and rolling hills formed by geology. Midway through the course, it also takes advantage of rugged dunes carved out by mining operations around the turn of the 20th Century. The result is a spectacular course with 75 feet of elevation change that winds its way through the Sandhills on a path toward delivering a golf experience like no other.

Notes

At Mid Pines, you'll experience a tradition of Southern hospitality and distinction that dates back nearly a century. Built in 1921, our stately Georgian-style Inn wears her age with grace and charm. Walking through the halls, you'd almost expect to see Sam Snead holding court at the bar, or Julius Boros showing his putting stroke to an admirer in the lobby. The original antiques found in many of our guest rooms will take your mind to a time when every craft was treated as an art. And the modern comforts in each room will satisfy golfers, business travelers and families alike.

Tobacco Road Golf Club, designed by the visionary Mike Strantz, is a uniquely challenging course set in the Sandhills of North Carolina, where a former sand quarry was transformed into a striking masterpiece. Opened in 1998, it blends Golden Age architectural principles with bold, unconventional design elements, offering stunning panoramic views and a layout that demands precision and strategy. With five sets of tees, players can choose their challenge, but be prepared—Strantz designed the course to test not only your skill but also your determination and mental fortitude. As you navigate the dramatic landscape, remember that Tobacco Road is a true test of every aspect of your game.

Mid Pines Golf Course, a Donald Ross masterpiece from 1921, remains true to its original design, meticulously restored by Kyle Franz in 2013. Renowned for its "pure Donald Ross" layout, the course seamlessly blends into the natural landscape, offering a balanced challenge for all players rather than a daunting test for champions. Though originally intended for friendly competition among members and guests, its pristine preservation has made it a sought-after destination for golf enthusiasts and a host of national competitions, including the 2002 USGA Senior Women's Amateur Championship. Mid Pines is a classic gem that embodies timeless golf course design.
